Drag-N-Scale

Scale Images Visually

Scale images visually by resizing the window or choose a preset size from the menu.

Loading Images

Drag and Drop images (a single image, a group of images, or a folder of images) on the Drag-N-Drop icon in the Finder

To add images to Dran-N-Drop once it is open, drag and drop them on the image list drawer. You can drag and drop individual images, a group of images, or a folder contain images. Clicking the image folder icon also lets you load a folder of images. Another way to add single images is to click the + button in the image list drawer.

Scaling Images

To scale images resize the main window. The displayed image automatically scales to fit the window.

Alternatively, you can choose a preset size from the popup menu on the toolbar.

Saving Scaled Images

Clicking the hard drive icon on the toolbar allows you to save images at the size of the image in the main window. You can select a single image to save, a group of images, or choose to save all images.

Using Scaled Images in Other Applications

Scaled images can be dragged from the main window to other applications that accept image drops such as Mail, Pages, TextEdit, etc.

Emailing Scaled Images

To email selected images at the size shown by the image in the main window, click the email icon. If you have not entered your mail account settings into the preferences you will be asked to do so now. Once your email account settings have been saved you can enter a recipient's email address in the window that comes up and click the Send button to send the selected images.
